Why do you wish to become an NRA Certified Instructor?

Where do you plan to conduct the classroom and range portions of your NRA Basic Firearm Training Courses?

After you earn your endorsement for instructor certification, your NRA Training Counselor is responsible for helping you find an instructor team. As a member of this team, you will work with others to organize and conduct NRA Basic Firearm Courses.

Do you personally know any NRA instructors?

What are their names?

Where do they teach?

Briefly describe any previous teaching experience (shooting or non-shooting related)

Briefly describe your shooting experience with rifles, pistols, rifles, shotguns, muzzleloading firearms, and air guns.

List the types of guns you have fired (e.g., bolt action rifle, semi-automatic pistol), how long you have been shooting them, how often you shoot them, how many rounds you have fired in the past six months, and the types of activities in which you participate with these guns.

List any firearms training courses that you have taken (What, Where, When):

Our primary interest is getting shooters who are willing to be active instructors - that is, who will teach at least a couple of classes a year. We'd prefer people who have competitive experience, simply because they have demonstrated an interest in being active. You can show this if you:

(a) have a rating in a competitive shooting discipline relevant to the discipline(s) that you are getting certified to teach. OR

(b) If you do not have a rating, you provide proof of completion of at least 2 matches or recognized courses of fire within the past 12 months.

Please check either (a) or (b) above and bring supporting documentation (e.g. classification card(s), copies of match results, etc., to the instructor training course.

Remember, this is a preference. What we're really after are people who are willing to actively teach classes! If you're not a competitor, are you willing to teach at least a couple of times a year?
